New CITI course available

The Collaborative Institutional Training Initiative (CITI) Program has released a new course COVID-19: Back to Campus (Fall 2020) - Basic. This course is available to MCW faculty, staff and students for a limited time. The course contains 6 modules and includes an overview of COVID-19, prevention strategies, recommended laboratory practices, recommendations when working with individuals who may be infected or suspected to be infected with COVID-19, as well as points to consider as students, staff, and faculty prepare to return to research activities, work, and medical school.

Course completion is required for incoming Graduate School PhD students. All other personnel should check with your department or School to determine if this course work is required for you & your activities*.* COVID-19: Back to Campus (Fall 2020) - Basic will no longer be available after October 1, 2020. Interested individuals can log onto CITI and add this course for viewing. Information regarding how to add a new course and access its content.