Grief and Depression

Have you experienced death of a loved one or someone close to you?

The Medical College of Wisconsin is conducting a research study to increase our understanding of the brain changes in individuals who experience depression and those who do not as a consequence of grief. Qualified participants must be at least 40 years old and should have experienced death of a loved one or someone close. We are seeking grieving participants with and without depression. If you qualify, you will complete grief, depression, memory and other behavioral tests and a MRI brain scan. Compensation for time and travel will be provided.
