Frequently asked questions

I have already taken CITI training, do I need to take GCP as well?

If the type of studies you are involved with fit the criteria described above, you will need to take GCP too.

How often do I need to complete this training?

Just like CITI training, GCP is renewable every 3 years.

I have taken Group 1 CITI training, do I need to retake “Biomedical Research and Good Clinical Practices”?

Yes, we have re-named the course categories as follows:

- Biomedical Research (formerly Learner Groups 1 and 2)
- Biomedical + GCP Learner Group 11
- Social/Behavior Research (formerly Learner Groups 4 and 5)
- Community Engagement or Community Based Participatory Research (CBPR), Community Partners - Learner Group 6

If the Training you have taken meets criteria as explained above, you will not be required to re-take GCP. You must, however, re-take it every 3 years

I have completed GCP training at another institution, do I need to take this again?

If the training at the other institution meets criteria as described above, you need not take it. You must, however, re-take it every 3 years. Additionally, you may contact Amit Gode at agode@mcw.edu for further clarification.

I am not involved in FDA regulated clinical research, do I still need GCP training?

No, if you are not involved in FDA regulated research, you need not take this training.

Where do I go to take GCP training?

GCP training is available via the CITI portal. Once you log in, just select the GCP course which will be added to your portfolio to complete. You may complete it at your own pace.

How will I know and track if my staff has taken GCP training?

You can request access to the CITI training Departmental report through the eBridge Help Desk.

I am non-MCW faculty involved in FDA-regulated research, do I need to take GCP training?

How will I get access to this training?

All non-MCW faculty are given adjunct faculty status through the CTSI mechanism. Once this is established, you will have access to CITI just like other faculty at MCW.

I still have questions, who do I contact?

In case of questions, please contact Amit Gode at agode@mcw.edu or at 414 805 6999.
