Medical College of Wisconsin presents

12th Annual Jonathan B. Towne Lectureship:
Ronald L. Dalman, MD

*Dr. Walter C. and Elsa R. Chidester Professor of Surgery
Chief, Stanford Vascular Surgery
Stanford University School of Medicine*

Dr. Ronald L. Dalman is Vice President (2018-2019) of the Society for Vascular Surgery (SVS). Previously, Dr. Dalman served as Program Chair of the SVS Vascular Annual Meeting.

Dr. Dalman has directed Stanford Vascular Surgery since 2005. The Division comprises 18 medical and surgical faculty, providing diagnostic and surgical services at eight locations in the Greater San Francisco Bay Area of Northern California.

A Steering Committee Member of the Stanford Cardiovascular Research Institute (CVI), Dr. Dalman is Co-PI of the CVI's NHLBI T32 "Mechanisms and Innovation in Vascular Disease" training grant. His research laboratory studies the pathophysiology of abdominal aortic aneurysm (AAA) disease, and is actively engaged in identifying and validating new treatment measures for AAA.

For Stanford Medicine, Dr. Dalman serves as Associate Dean for Market Development, as well as Co-Director and Quality Officer for the Cardiovascular Health Destination Service Line.
