The Medical College of Wisconsin and University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center Endocrine Surgery Symposium will be held on July 26, 2019 at Saint Kate - The Arts Hotel, located at 139 E. Kilbourn Avenue, Milwaukee, WI 53202.

PARKING:
Parking is available at Saint Kate at an hourly rate. There is a special rate of $10 if you arrive by 9:00 a.m. and leave before 6:00 p.m. Valet parking is not available. Please see www.parkmilwaukee.com for alternate nearby structure/surface/street parking options; availability and rates vary.

TARGET AUDIENCE:
Endocrine Surgeons
General Surgeons
Endocrinologists
Otolaryngologists
Surgical Oncologists
Primary Care Physicians
Fellows, residents, and students
Allied Health Professionals

PURPOSE:
This educational activity is designed to highlight current issues in the management of disorders of the parathyroid/thyroid and adrenal glands through didactic lectures, panel discussions, and case presentations. Invited speakers include well-known academic surgeons who are well-published in their respective fields and who can provide up-to-date summaries of the topics.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES:
• Describe the optimal management algorithm in the evaluation and treatment of patients with primary aldosteronism.
• Describe indications for surgery in patients with primary hyperparathyroidism.
• Discuss the optimal extent of surgery for patients with low-risk differentiated thyroid cancer, including options for active surveillance.
• Participate in discussion of management of patients with advanced surgical endocrine disease, including rare malignancies and reoperative thyroidectomy/parathyroidectomy.

EDUCATIONAL METHOD
The format will include lectures from leaders in each field along with discussion and the utilization of an audience response system. There will also be case presentations in a tumor board format led by moderators with ample opportunity for questions and discussion.

Barbra S. Miller, MD is an Assistant Professor in the Division of Endocrine Surgery, Section of General Surgery at the University of Michigan. Dr. Miller received her medical degree from the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine and went on to complete a residency in General Surgery at University of Texas Southwestern in Dallas, Texas. Dr. Miller was the first Norman W. Thompson, M.D., Fellow in Endocrine Surgery at University of Michigan. She then served as Assistant Professor in the Endocrine Surgery Division at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio before re-joining the University of Michigan Department of Surgery in 2007. Her entire practice is focused on endocrine surgery. She is a member of the multidisciplinary endocrine oncology team and the multidisciplinary Graves’ disease team. In 2014, she developed the Priority Parathyroid Program for patients with primary hyperparathyroidism.

Paul H. Graham, MD graduated from The University of Texas Medical School at Houston and completed his General Surgery residency at The University of Alabama at Birmingham. He then completed an Endocrine Surgery fellowship at Brigham and Women’s Hospital in Boston. Dr. Graham is board certified by the American Board of Surgery. He is a member of the American College of Surgeons and the American Association of Endocrine Surgeons. Dr. Graham is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Surgical Oncology at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center. His interests include the management of both benign and malignant thyroid, parathyroid, adrenal, and neuroendocrine diseases as well as the use of minimally invasive techniques in the surgical management of endocrine disorders.

Elizabeth G. Grubbs, MD, MS is an Associate Professor in the Department of Surgical Oncology at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center where she serves as Program Director for the Fellowship in Complex General Surgical Oncology. Dr. Grubbs graduated from Duke University Medical School and completed her General Surgery residency at Duke. She completed a Surgical Oncology fellowship at MD Anderson and received her Masters degree in Epidemiology at Harvard School of Public Health. Her clinical practice is dedicated to the treatment of benign and malignant thyroid, adrenal, and parathyroid disease with clinical and research interests focusing on the treatment of hereditary endocrine neoplasias. Dr. Grubbs serves as director of MD Anderson’s multi-disciplinary Multiple Endocrine Neoplasia Specialty Clinic. Her research program focuses on genotype-phenotype correlation within and among different germline RET mutations as well as non-RET mediated mechanisms of medullary thyroid cancer (MTC) with the goal of identifying potential pathways for new MTC therapeutics.
